prove of Elmira Methods.

William Sexton and James Cronin were arraigned before Judge Martine in Part III., General Sessions, this morning on a charge of having stolen a gold watch from Frank Spring between 2 and 3 o'clock on the morning of April 1.

Spring in his affidavit says that he was on an Elevated train when Sexton and Cronin entered. Sexton sat next to him. Soon he felt a gentle tug at his vest pocket, and when he glanced down he saw his watch in the hands of Sexton. The latter saw that he was detected, dropped the watch and left the car at the next station, closely followed by Cronin and Spring. A policeman was called by Spring and both young men were arrested.

Sexton pleaded guilty in court and was sentenced to Sing Sing for two years and six months. Cronin was discharged owing to the lack of evidence, in pronouncing sentence on Sexton Judge Martine said:

"I was going to send you to Elmira, but you've been there once."

Altorney Fox, of Marbury & Fox, counsel for the British Consul, said that the stories of the crime which had been published seemed to have been colored all one way and in Pedersen's favor. The statements of the crew in the possession of the British Consul are to the effect that Pedersen, after stabbing Shields the first time and while the murdered man was lying helpless on the deck, jabbed his knife into him three times and otherwise showed his feroclous nature

The stories of mutiny among the crew are not credited to any great extent by Mr. Fox, who said that had charkes of mutiny had been preferred against the men by the Capitain, the matter would immediately have been brought to the attention of Commissioner Shields and warrants for their arrest asked for.

Court, Brooklyn, this morning, on the charge of attempting to kill his wife.

Mose, yesterday afternoon.

Multiargart is about thirty-six years old. He is tall and slim. As he faced Jutsice Tighe this morning his face showed signs of excessive dissipation. His left hand was bandaged and he carried it in a sling. He shot himself at the time he was trying to fill his wife's body with builets.

Mrs. McIntargart is at the Seney Hospital suffering from two builet wounds, one in the neck, the other in the left side of the head. They are not serious. Michtargart lost his position through drink. He began to abuse his wife and she left him, taking her four children with her. She carned her own living by dressmaking.

Her husband called at her house yesterday and demanded that she return to live with him. She refused and McIntargart drew a revolver and shot at SPECIALS FOR THURSDAY AND DURING THE WEEK.
